What grant assessors look for first

6 things that make an application easy to score

01

They score against the criteria

Assessors work through the published criteria one by one. Answer each one directly and use the same headings the guidelines use.

02

They need a clear problem and outcome

Say what problem you are solving, what changes if the project works and how you will know. Vague benefits are hard to score.

03

They look for a credible plan

Milestones, who does what and when. A plan with dates and owners reads as deliverable. A list of intentions does not.

04

They check the budget matches the plan

Every cost should trace back to an activity. Costs with no activity behind them look like padding.

05

They look for evidence

Customer letters, quotes, early results and relevant experience. Claims without evidence tend to score lower than claims with it.

06

They often read many applications

Short paragraphs, plain language and no jargon. Make the strongest points easy to find.
